

Vaccine Resistance Movement Launches Preemptive Strike to Inform Canada's Most Vulnerable About Vaccine Dangers

As the Vaccine "Roll Out" begins in Canada, will the Vaxers receive a warm welcome and a rolled up sleeve, or be met with the "cold shoulder treatment"?

Late last week, a Globe and Mail article let it slip that Coastal Health would be opening H1N1 vaccination clinics on Vancouver's Downtown East-Side (aka Skid Row) and that roving teams of nurses would be taking to the streets with backpacks full of syringes to mass vaccinate unsuspecting street people against the alleged "pandemic" H1N1 flu virus.

Upon hearing of these plans, members of the Vaccine Resistance Movement (which held public demonstrations in Vancouver in August and September) sprang into action again on Sunday, launching a full out "preemptive strike of info bombs." Despite inclement weather, they descended upon the East Side, fanning out in teams of two and three, armed with stacks of fact-filled flyers, to civilly inform the locals about H1N1, as well as the history, risks and dangers of vaccines.

The volunteers visited each and every soup kitchen, shelter and social facility within a 1.5 kilometre radius, approaching street people wherever they were gathered or were waiting in queues for food. Their information was well received. They estimate that they were able to hand out about 1,000 flyers in under 3 hours, and that most of those whom they had approached were appreciative. Several street people stated that they had heard about the vaccination plans, having read the prominently displayed red posters in the hallways of the various shelters, and were already uneasy about it.

"...the street people may not have the same access to information that most of us enjoy. We feel it's our civic duty to ensure that they're getting all of the facts, so that they can make an informed choice for themselves when these Vaxers arrive next week" stated one of the team leaders. "There's going to be a lot of pressure put on them by the so-called authorities to get this shot...using incentives like food or drinks, or perhaps penalties, like barring them from services if they don't get the shot. All we want is that they hear both sides of the story, and to know that there is a lot of fear and propoganda being spewed to get us all to buy into this plan, by people with motives and agendas that may not be in our long-term best interest. For us, it's a labour of love and compassion. We just care!" she adds.

Similar actions were also carried out in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, and a number of smaller towns across the country, with more people taking to the streets in the coming weeks to counteract the government agenda and the media spin. Recent polls have shown that the public is already sceptical and sensing that a scam is being perpetrated by the W.H.O., Big Pharma and the Medical Mafia, when well over two-thirds of Canadians have indicated that they are not interested in getting the H1N1 shots. The masses seem aware that the swine flu virus has not proven to be particularly prolific, nor severe, much less very deadly. They also seem to be sceptical about the efficacy of vaccines, and are growing aware of the dangers and risks.

Barely a third of Canadians even bother to get the seasonal flu shot (including doctors and nurses) so one really has to wonder just what they were thinking, or whose script the federal government was following, when it ordered 50.4 million doses for a population of 33 million Canadians. But rather than admitting error, or conceding defeat in the face of public opinion, and scrubbing their unwarranted and unwanted mass vaccination plans, the Federal Health Minister has instead rushed the "roll out" of this noxious substance, originally scheduled for release in November.
